

Education

Want to take a Walk on the Wild Side? Texas Conservation Alliance's guide to an outdoor adventure will show you how. Click here...

Looking for a special outdoor experience for your youngsters?

Long-time Alliance member Joanne Hill recommends Earth Camp for Dallasites - call Texas Conservation Alliance for details.

Treetops in the Forest has wonderful camps helping young people learn about their world. For more information... <http://treetopsintheforest.org>

Projects Led by the Alliance

Below are scenes from two of Texas Conservation Alliance's education projects — one an after school program for fourth and fifth graders at Brook Elementary in Austin, the other a program to train Houston Middle School teachers to use the outdoors as a classroom.

Brook Elementary activities included identifying birds, putting up owl nest boxes, and planting a butterfly garden.

In the Texas Outdoor Partners Program, inner city middle-school students and their teachers spent a glorious weekend at the Texas Wilderness Pow Wow. When asked what he liked best about Pow Wow, one enterprising young man responded, "I liked the mud!"

Planting day at Brooke Elementary

Houston middle schoolers put up a tent at Pow Wow and chow down at a day-long outing.

